Dr. Zakir Husain Library

Dr. Zakir Husain Library, established in 1920, is the central library of Jamia Millia Islamia, India's premier higher education institution. The library is named after Dr. Zakir Husain, a former president of India and Vice-Chancellor of JMI. Dr. Zakir Husain was a well-known scholar and educator, and this renaming was a tribute to his contributions to education and his association with Jamia Millia Islamia. During his period as V.C., the library's collection began to grow more rapidly, incorporating a wider range of subjects and acquiring rare and valuable manuscripts. It is a beacon of knowledge and learning. It serves as a vital resource center, primarily focusing on the disciplines of Social Sciences, Humanities and Sciences.

MANUSCRIPT SECTION

The library has a valuable collection of 2243 manuscripts in Arabic, Persian, and Urdu pertaining to the period of the 14th–20th centuries. A few are notable for their calligraphic style and illustrations. Some of the manuscripts are on the Upanishads, Gita, Mahabharata, Quran, etc. These laminated and digitized manuscripts are preserved in the Manuscript Section of Dr. Zakir Husain Library.

LIGHT READING SECTION

Library has recently established a Light Reading Section for general reading purposes of its members, which includes best selling collection on biographies, fictions, fashion, arts, cinema, music, culture, and life style.

PERIODICAL SECTION

The Periodical Section of Dr. Zakir Husain Library caters to the needs of its users by subscribing to print journals, magazines, newspapers, and electronic resources. The section offers access to print journals, magazines, newspapers, e-journals, bibliographic and citation databases, statistical and financial databases, similarity detection tools (plagiarism detection software), writing assistance tools, and remote access to electronic resources. The Periodical Section also contributes to research support and user awareness programs. The Periodical Section provides a daily news clipping service to top university administrators.

REFERENCE SECTION

Dr. Zakir Husain Library has a dedicated Reference Section that provides a wide range of resources to support research and study. This section includes reference materials such as dictionaries, encyclopaedias, handbooks, yearbooks, gazettes, theses, etc.

TEXTBOOK COLLECTION (TBC)

The text book collection comprises more than eleven thousand books in English, Hindi and Urdu languages. The books are given to the borrowers only for consultation purpose within the section. The TBC books are not issued for overnight use.

DIGITAL RESOURCE CENTRE (DRC)

Dr. Zakir Husain Library features a spacious Digital Resources Centre that is specifically designated for electronic resources. The resource center is equipped with 80 computer systems, allowing users to seamlessly access all electronic resources subscribed by the library, such as databases of journals, e-books, and reference materials.

RARE BOOKS SECTION

The Rare Book Section houses a collection of books, covering diverse subjects such as history, astronomy, religion, and related disciplines, with materials dating from the early 18th century to the 20th century. The section also includes the publications of Jamia faculty members and the specialized Imdaad Sabri Collection, comprising rare Urdu serials of significant scholarly and historical value.

E-LIBRARY

A well-equipped e-library provides access to a large number of electronic resources in all disciplines from within campus, home, and other remote locations in a 24x7 mode. The library has a dedicated, large e-resources centre for 100-plus users to access electronic databases of journals, e-books, and reference materials subscribed to by the university. The library organises frequent orientation and information literacy programmes concerning these resources with the objective of raising awareness among the faculty members and research scholars for maximizing e-resource usage. Remote access to e-resources is through online registration, a link for which has been provided on the home page of the university.
